Doesn't seem like much is being 'created'!

Whatever comes from my pen is.

Did they say "pen is", or-

The Master Creator is blessed and cursed with the ability to manifest any thought as the pen is inked.

What, how?

My pen is magic.

Wait there it is again, "pen" or...?

Forget it. I don't see how that's a curse.

They can never stop creating, not for one moment. Not only is there immense pressure to come up with something new, but the slightest stray thought could have dissettling or even catastrophic consequences.

Then how is it so empty in here?

The MC has thought of nearly everything and now resorts to re-combining forgotten ideas in a search for novelty.

Much of their work ends up being very introspective and employs characters that represent the MC and the plight of eternal creation.

Seems a bit masturbatory.
